Hospital seeks new non-executive director

Dorset County Hospital NHS Foundation Trust is on the lookout for a new non-executive director to join its Board.

Expressions of interest are invited from experienced leaders from the public or private sectors, with proven Board level experience. This is an important role ensuring appropriate governance and leadership for the Trust.

Trust Chairman Mr Mark Addision said: "We are looking for an exceptional individual to join our dynamic Board.

"The successful candidate will be passionate about and committed to delivering the highest standards of care. They will directly contribute to making a positive difference to our local community."

Dorset County Hospital NHS Foundation Trust serves a population of over 250,000, providing a comprehensive range of general and acute services from a modern 365-bed hospital and county-wide renal services. Through its clinical workforce it aims to provide outstanding care for people in ways which matter to them.
